Cohort 6

Apply today: uli.org/healthmentors
Applications due Thursday, January 19, 2023

The ULI/Randall Lewis Health Mentorship Program experience will allow participants to deepen understanding of opportunities to advance health through the built environment, learn about ULI, and establish a ULI network.

Program Eligibility:

- Currently enrolled (full or part time) in an accredited graduate program in real estate, architecture, urban planning, or a related field
- Passionate about championing health equity through land use and the built environment throughout career
- Available to attend the 2023 ULI Spring Meeting and 2023 ULI Fall Meeting (more details below)

Program Benefits:

- Financial Support for Registrations and Travel:
 - ULI's 2023 Spring Meeting – Toronto, Canada, May 16-18, 2023
 - ULI's 2023 Fall Meeting – Los Angeles, California, October 30-November 2, 2023
 - The Randall Lewis/Building Healthy Places Forum or similar programming at both meetings
 - One Product Council dinner and meeting at both meetings
 - One ULI/Randall Lewis Health Mentorship gathering at both meetings.
- Professional Development Support:
 - One-year ULI student membership
 - 1:1 mentorship with an ULI Industry Leader
 - ULI Mentorship Program Alumni Network
 - Publication of experience reflections on ULI website (including photos and short bios)

ULI is grateful for the generous support of ULI Trustee Randall Lewis
